Great Britain rather than with his competitors in South America. Industry, he continued, consists of two factors—production and exchange. If there was no exchange it were better not to produce. Taxes restrict exchange, and so does the McKinley bill. A nation could not buy if it did not sell, and a tax on imports in the long run was a tax on exports. There was not a section or a line in the entire McKinley bill that would open the market for another bushel of wheat or another barrei the force bill would put the South under 250,000 or 500,000 officers.

The Republican party was sectional, and ignored and practically disfranchised the South, and by the Republicans to be a Democrat was considered next asin to rebellion or treason. Nothing would satisfy them but to wave the bloody shirt and keep alive the prejudices of the war.

The Democracy, on the other hand, was, he said, a friend of the rights and interests of the people and true to the principles favorable to liberty. It protects the imborer and tax-payer and was against the monopolist. Cleveland's administration was characterized by purity, integrity, economy, fairness, justice to both sections and races, unforgetfulness of the interests of the people, proper respect for independence and rights, enlargement of the civil service, conscientious discharge of public duties, and a faithful adherence to the Constitution.

In conclusion Dr. Curry said: His (Cleveland's) election means the restoration of union, fraternity of sections, triumpu of purity and justice, re-enth-lonement of the Constitution, and of the equality of States and citizenship. His vectors mind, his steadfast will, his apti-

As terrible as would be the immediate results of the passage of the measure, the final results would be worse, declared Mr. Davidson. They would paralyze business and undo all that has been accomplished in bringing about fraternal feeling between the sections. Mr. Davidson denounced the force bill in unmeasured terms and then, turning to the McKinley bill, showed the utter fallacy of the claims of its advocates.

UTTERLY FAILED TO PUT UP WAGES.

He demonstrated that it had caused the poor farmer to become poorer; that it was in the interest of the robber barons, and that it had utterly failed to put up wages. He then contrasted the Republican and Democratic parties and made a magnificent summary of what the latter had accomplished for the people, and what would be the result of its triumph in this election. His peroration was an eloquent appeal to his hearers to do their duty in the cause of Democracy, which was the cause of freedom.

During his speech he gave some striking facts and figures and emphasized his points by apt anecdotes.

No use for there parties.

Mr. Montague used the Third party with gloves off. He said he never did like third parties, not even when he was a courtingman. They were always disagreeable. The speaker was severe in his consure of the People's party and referred in scathing sarcasm to the great Jeffersonianism manifested by the Beverleys and disgrantled alleged ex-Democrats, who have branched off from the old mother party. From 1856 until after the war, the southern people were passing through what was known as the "golden period," continued Mr. Montague. After the war everything began to become taxed. The golden erato which he referred was a period of low taxation. War came and taxes were increased. These taxes were placed upon the backs of the "horny-handed sons of toil." WHY HE LEFT THE PEOPLE'S PARTY. WHY HE LEFT THE PROPLE'S PARTY.

The speaker in alluding to the Third party told a very amusing story of the reasons why a member of that political organization withdrew from it. It was because it was composed of lawyers without practice, doctors without patients, farmers without farms, women without husbands, and statesmen without jobs. [Great applance]

It is astonishing, the speaker said, how many financiers there are in this country—men who stand on every cross-road and corner and proclaim that they have managed to get rid of what they once had and to go many dollars on the other side of the ledger. Some Third-party people in this land would make you believe that there is no feature of the country's monetary aspect with which they are not perfectly familiar. The assertion that Grover Cleveland had saved this land during his administration the sum of $100,000,000 a year caused much enthusiasm.

Mr. Montague's closing was a magnificent effort, and in it he predicted that the city of Richmond would give to the Democracy on the 5th of November a grander and more glorious victory than it had ever done in the past. The speaker's words were cheered to the echo, and when he took his seat the applause was tumultuous.

REV. C. J. GIBSON, D. D., DEAD. His Last Pastoral Act a Marriage-Passed Peacefully Away.

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.

Petersburg, Va., October 31.—Rev. Churchill J. Gibson, D. D., the beloved rector of Grace Episcopal church, in this city, died this afternoon at 5 o'clock after a brief illness of pheumonia complicated with heart trouble. He returned home two weeks ago from Baltimore, where he had gone to attend the Episcopal General Convention, his condition being so feeble that he deemed home the best place for him. He somewhat regained his strength, and last Wednesday went out to marry a member of his congregation. This was the last pastoral act of his life. Two or three days later his fatal illness set in. (Special telegram to the Dispatch. A TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Gibson was born in Richmond on the 29th of October, 1819, and had just passed his 73d year. On the 25th of May, 1891, in the presence of a great gathering of the Episcopal clergy of the State and of the ministers and people of all the denominations of Petersburg assembled in Grace church, the fiftieth year of pastorate as rector of that church was commemorated with impressive and touching ceremonies, and as a token of the warm-hearted love of his friends a purse of nearly $2.000 in gold was presented to him, a voluntary testimonial to the purity and fidelity of his long ministry offered with the tender, loving, and earnest prayers of the people for his long continuance in usefulness among them. Bishop Whittle conducted the services and Bishop Randolph delivered the presentation address. The modest response by Dr. Gibson was in accordance with the whole tenor of his life. Thankful for the remembrance, he gave God the praise for the work he had done. Dr. Gibson was born in Richmond on the

Dr. Gibson passed away as calmly and peacefully as an initant. Though he had suffered great pain during the last few days, he bore it with sublime and beautiful patience. He never spoke of himself. If his thoughts could have been known they would doubtless have told of a joyous welcome in his heart for the messenger that would bear him to the higher joys of the other world, coupled only with pangs of a brief separation from the loved ones hers. If ever there lived a good man upon the earth, if ever there lived a man whose whole heart and energies were devoted to the service of the Master and of his fellow-man, it was Dr. Gibson. Self was ever forgotten, and duty and love was his guiding principle. Christ's love for the world, and man's duty to God and man was the great theme of his preaching to men. "He was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and faith, and much people were added unto the Lord through him." CALM AS AN INFANT.

STAR IN HIS CROWN.

This will be a great star in his crown. Of his great work in the ministry; of the good he has accomplished in a thousand ways; of the bereaved hearts he has comforted; of the charities he has bestowed, the half can never be told. The news of his death was a great shock to the community, and the people of all classes are mourning. Such was the universal love in which he was held and so intense that in hundreds of houses where he visited tears of sorrow are shed to-night. Dr. Gibson leaves a widow, a sister of the late Bishop Atkinson, of North Carolina, and two children—Rev. Robert A. Gibson, of Oincinnatt, and Mrs. Mary Chamberlayne. He has near relatives in Kichmond and Baltimore.

While walking on a railroad-track at Akron. O., yesterday, W. H. Golden and Robert U. Conley were struck by a train and killed. Conley was a single man, and tiolden was his brother-in-law, and lived in Rosnoka. Va.

KID HOGAN AND DOLLY LYONS,

* RID HOGAN AND DOLLY LYONS.

It was nearly 9 o'clock when the first bout began, the contestants being kid Hogan, of Brooklyn, and Dolly Lyons, of this city. The boys fought at catch-weight, owing to the fact that Lyons could not get down to weight it 112 bounds. The purse was $1,000. Kid Hogan knocked Dolly Lyons out in ten rounds.

Hogan had clearly the better of the battle at the fourth round, and was hitting his opponent at will. Lyons forced the fighting in the fifth and seventh and scored a clean knock down. Hogan was getting tired in the ninth. His weight began to tell. The fight was fast and furious, each man doing his level best, but Hogan did most of the work. The referee decided the fight in favor of Hogan. Lyons gave Hogan the fight of his life.

THE EVENT OF THE EVENING.

Hogan the fight of his life.

THE EVENT OF THE EVENIOG.

Choynski was the first of the two pugilists to enter the ring. He was accompanied by his seconds, John McVay, of Philadelphia; Jim M. Garroll, of Brooklyn, and Parson Davies, of Chicago, and his timer, Dominick O'Malley, of New Orleans. George Godfrey was not far behind. He was looked after by Frank Steele, Jim Godfrey, Jack McGee, and Professor Williams. Choynski fought at 163 and Godfrey at 175 pounds, John P. Eckhardt acted as referee.

Fight Between Giants. PEORIA, I.L., October 31.—Mike Queenan, the stock-yard gunt of Chicago, and Dick Graham, of Brooklyn, fought a finish batthe near this city yesterday morning. The men are both giants, Queenan being 6 feet 2 inches tall and his opponent 2 inches taller. The fight lasted four rounds, the Brooklyn man being than knocked out with a terrible drive under the chin.

Ormonde Bought by a Californian Ormonde Bought by a Californian.
San Francisco, Cal... October 31.—William O'B. MacDonough, a capitalist of this city, has cabled the sum of $150,000 to the Rothschilds, of London, to be held by them subject to the order of Tattersalls in payment for the great stallion Ormonde, the peer of the English turf, which MacDonough has purchased. Ormonde was bred by the Duke of Westminster in 1883, but is now owned at Buenos Ayres. MacDonough will have the horse brought to California and placed in the stud.

Wonderful 'Cycling.
St. Louis, Mo., October 31.—One of the most wonderful performances of the year in the 'cycling world was the smashing of the DeSoto round-trip record yesterday by A. G. Harding, the famous St. Lours wheelman, distance ninety miles, over hills that would be called mountains anywhere. The record up to yesterday was 11 hours and 56 minutes, made by Hal. Greenwood five years ago. Harding made the trip in 9 hours and 25 minutes.

You couldn't get closer to the plumbline of exactness in just what you require in the line of Clothing than you will in our store. We are as familiar with the wants of our patrons as you are with your own door-yard or the multi-plication-table. We are here to serve you, but you must lend us your sid. You must buy in order to get the benefit.

Invitations to the reception which was to have been given November 7th by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Putney have been recalled on account of the sudden death of Mrs. Putney's sister, Mrs. E. P. Goggin, of Bedford City. The deceased, who died yesterday morning, was a daughter of Colonel Robert E. Withers, ex-United States Senator and ex-Consul to Hong Kong. Mrs. Goggins had been sick for several weeks, but grew much better and them suffered a relapse.

grows more interesting every day. Make it a point to read it every day. That Window Full

Of Coats attracts more attention than you would imagine and for one reason—no other store could put so many different styles in the window and yet have such an assortment to show you inside. But that is only one object-lesson from our Cleakroom. We want you to give it the se-verest test. There is here now many hundreds of Cloaks the likes of which you cannot duplicate anywhere in your reach. We mean this without excepting any store. To illustrate this we will describe one style, No. 815, Long Reefer of black satin beaver, lap seams, full as-trachan-fur shawl collar, four astrachan heads, and silk-cord loope—any size, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44. Price is but $7.50. We doubt if you can buy same garment elsewhere for even ten dollars. Remember this is one coat. The same thing stands for many styles at $10, $12.50, $15, $17, and $25.
